

Hosting an Event for WRD – examples and suggestions

Need some inspiration for your event on World Ranger Day? Read on for some examples and suggestions or contact us at executiveofficer@internationalrangers.org.

Screen the original TGLF documentary

Mark your WRD event with a showing of the original documentary, The Thin Green Line, highlighting how it all started. Invite your friends and family to share some popcorn and follow Sean's journey.

MC a mini-concert

Do you know a local musician or have a friend who's a musician? Are they willing to headline a gig/concert to fundraise for Rangers? Find a venue or rearrange your living room, set up your speakers and dust off your dancing shoes.

Have a dinner party

Do you consider yourself a MasterChef? Here's your chance to try your hand at cooking dishes from countries where Rangers work on the frontline. Invite your friends with adventurous palettes and ask your guests to donate the 'cover' charge.

Set a challenge

Are you the adventurous type? Avid mountain-biker, runner or Tough Mudder® veteran? Why not set up a Ranger-inspired challenge course and invite friends to compete in teams and experience the frontline.

Dress to impress

Organise a themed dress up / dress down / dress all in green day! Ask colleagues for a donation to support Rangers.

Run a bake sale

Are your cookies coveted? Are your marshmallow slices moreish? Get your bake on and invite friends and family to bake up a dish that can be sold at work, school, or at a community fair.

Part of a sport club

Are you connected to a local sports club? Can the team donate the proceeds for after-match celebrations to Rangers? Or can the team wear green socks to honour Rangers at their next match?

Move over Cannes...Run a mini film festival

Are you a film buff? Use your Netflix subscription for good and have a binge session watching conservation documentaries.

Book a local speaker

Get a local Ranger or conservationist or local celebrity to come and speak about their work. Donation on entry.

Tackle the trivia

Not fazed by the Millionaire's HotSeat? What about running a trivia night at a local venue then? Entry fees support Rangers and local businesses provide the prizes.

Run a pop-up stall at local event

Do you have a local community-run event where you could run a stall that promotes the work of Rangers across the world? We have the promotional materials if you have the contacts.

Run a silent auction

Are you a bargain hunter? Or are you connected to local businesses. Can you organise donations or prizes that your community bid on?

From all the team at The Thin Green Line Foundation and the International Ranger Federation, a massive THANK YOU for hosting an event for World Ranger Day.
