[Introduction]

World Ranger Day

July 31st 2018

A Message from

The President of the

International Ranger Federation

Hello Everyone,

Sean Willmore here from the International Ranger Federation, and Thin Green Line Foundation.

I'd like to send a message to both our Rangers and our supporters for this coming World Ranger Day, July 31st 2018.

Firstly to our Rangers, this is your special day to recognise the work you do each and every day in service of nature and conservation.

Some of us have lost colleagues this year, somewhere in excess of 100 Rangers again lost in the last 12 months that we know of. We also salute them on this special day.

To our supporters we say 'thank you for standing with us', not just with the sign, but many of you in action as well. We can't do it without you and it means a great deal to the Rangers around the world to know that they have your support.

We often say that conservation without Rangers is just conversation. So, thank you to you for making all the projects that we do in supporting our colleagues possible.

Please register your events online and help make a great deal of noise to let the world know that the Rangers, who go quietly about their work protecting wildlife, are appreciated and are respected.

Happy World Ranger Day to everybody.

Thank you.
